

COCKSURE GARTH LOSES HIS FIRM GRIP A LITTLE

Newtown Wed 30 Jan 2019: In typical thrilling NPC style, despite Garth's cocksure attitude going into Week 2 of the 2018 NPC, his rampaging success appeared to be reined in as he was taken out in only Round 3 by fellow local boy, Alex.

Above: Could Union local Alex be next to hold the cock in his hand?

Alex went on to the final, however, lost to newcomer Paul, who came through to the final on a buyback after losing his 1st round game to Garth and becoming what is known as a 'spoiler'. Paul also found success by giving Garth in their earlier game what Garth himself was later heard to describe as a "Bum Buzzer*" whereby his bumhole was quivering so much at the prospect of a loss that it "sounded like a door buzzer".

 A common sporting condition*

Dean once again showed his consistent performance by going through to the semi-finals taking out Sara, Col and Chris along the way. This puts Dean in the #2 spot in the overall rankings. Col's loss on the night was largely caused by his cyclonic cannon-blast shot on his last ball launching the white ball off the table resulting in Dean being set up on the black. Despite Col's 2 weeks of 2nd round failures, his acquired points tally still leaves him in with a chance at 7th position for the final next week.

Peter T once again went through to the 3rd round after playing outstanding games against Union local hotshots, Will and Dave C (last week's runner-up to Garth) before losing to the blistering and deadly accurate shots of Kat, a long-time NPC star and formidable opponent who went on to the 4th round. Her difficult pot on the black was absolutely spectacular and world-class. Despite the loss, Peter T now takes up the #4 spot while Kat leaps into 6th place despite her woeful 1st round loss and "pantsdown" last week from Will. The "pantsdown" honour for this week went to local, Julie, who was blitzed by Bo who had dispensed with her wristicular incapacitation to play some spectacular comeback pool.

Above: Kat in blazing form.

Not surprisingly for most, the highly over-hyped headband of Dave G once again appeared to fail to produce its claimed magical rainbow results at the pool table. Despite many years of R&D and testing, Dave has failed to come up with a working prototype that produces the desired results. He said after the game, "It's a bummer cos this week I was really trying to pull something out of my arse". Then, chuckles spread quickly through the venue when he was overheard saying that "next week someone is putting something up my arse". These chuckles quickly subsided when it was discovered this was going to be an intimate medical procedure rather than a recreational one. Good luck with that, Dave. It does sound like a bit of a bummer.

Above: Dave G "assuming the position" for next week's "procedure".

The current rankings of those able to win or come equal 1st in the 2018 NPC are:

name	rank	total	week 1	week 2
GARTH	1	62	40	22
DEAN	2	60	29	31
DAVE C	3	46	32	14
PETER T	4	45	23	22
ALEX	4	45	8	37
KAT	6	31		31
COL	7	29	15	14
DAVE T	8	28	23	5
JUSTIN	9	24	24

Scores: stats.hdp.org.au/2018/npc

LATE BREAKING NEWS

In other breaking news, the pool scene is abuzz with allegations surrounding the mysterious 'crippling' of one of the NPC's most regular and consistent players, Peter T. In a 'freak' cycling accident, he was almost permanently eliminated by the unidentified driver of a vehicle 3 days after securing 4th place in the NPC. Rumours are circulating that this apparently targeted incident could be the result of collusion between other NPC players and Russian sponsored actors to influence the 2018 NPC outcome leaving Peter T with a broken left wrist and damaged right wrist seriously hindering his cock-holding capabilities (NPC, that is). For live updates: #BreakNews.

Glebe Globe Major News Division
Roving Reporter